Ed Weir . . .

Among the incoming University of Nebraska freshmen in September, 1922, was a tall, 18-year-old youth from Superior. He was Edwin Samuel Weir who on the gridiron was destined to become, as the immortal Knute Rockne of Notre Dame put it, "the greatest tackle I have ever seen."

Rockne should have known. Weir was a member of the 1923 Nebraska team that whipped the Four Horsemen. And he started at tackle against Notre Dame in 1924 and 1925 when the Cornhuskers and the men from South Bend swapped victories. In both those latter years Weir was named All-America, first by Walter Camp and then by the All-America Board.

Today, 28 years after putting away his collegiate football togs, Edwin Samuel Weir will be presented a plaque denoting his election to the National Football Hall of Fame. Thus he will join the gridiron greats of yesteryear—Rockne, Camp, Pudge Heffelfinger, Amos Alonzo Stagg, Bronko Nagurski and Jim Thorpe, to name a few.

Presentation of the award during half-time ceremonies will be made by R. E. Peters, executive-secretary of the Big Seven Conference and Hall of Fame president.

Born in 1903 at Superior, Ed lived on a farm near there for 16 years. He competed in both football and track for five years at Superior High School. In those days eighth graders could participate.

As a Nebraska undergraduate he won letters in football and track three years. In the latter sport he ran the high and low hurdles.

Weir was a back in high school. But when he came up to the Nebraska varsity as a sophomore there were two sets of varsity backs, an unusual situation in those days when 14 to 16 players carried the full burden both offensively and defensively.

"The coach (Fred Dawson) asked me where I wanted to play," Ed recalls. "I said I didn't want to play on the bench. So I was moved up front to a tackle position. And there I stayed for three college and three professional seasons." (After graduation he played with the professional Philadelphia Yellowjackets.)

Weir was an assistant coach at Nebraska until 1939 when he took over as head track coach. Since then his teams have won nine Big Seven indoor and outdoor titles.

University of Nebraska Coaching Staff

Meet the 1953 Cornhuskers

By JIM MAY

Nebraska's 64th gridiron season finds the Cornhuskers back with the single wing offense after several years of "T" formation football as Coach Bill Glassford seeks to utilize more fully the power of a pair of hard-charging fullbacks and a half dozen fleet halfbacks, all experienced. . . .

Two-year veteran fullbacks sparking this year's Scarlet and Cream are Ray Novak, Omaha, and Jim Yeisley, Coin, Ia. . . . There is little to choose between them in the running department, although Novak was the offensive specialist last year while Yeisley played defensive halfback. . . . The latter, however, developed rapidly as a runner in drills this spring. . . . Novak can also pass and punt. . . . A third two-year man, George Cifra of Turtle Creek, Pa., was ordered to report for induction into the army on Sept. 3. . . .

Heading the string of halfbacks are Senior Johnny Bordogna, Turtle Creek, Pa., last year's offensive leader as "T" formation quarterback, and Rex Fischer, promising sophomore triple-threatener from Oakland. . . . Both are tailbacks in the single wing. . . . Little John's 1952 offensive total was 1,108 yards—a net of 576 on the ground and 532 through the air. . . . Thirty of his 81 pass attempts were completions. . . . He also was the Huskers' leading scorer with 48 points. . . . Fischer performed like a veteran in Nebraska's annual Alumni-Varsity contest. . . . He clinched the Varsity victory by running up the middle for 28 yards to the final six-pointer. . . . Earlier he passed to Halfback Dennis Korinek, Ulysses, for 91 yards and a score. . . .

Other veterans in the tailback and wingback corps include Max Kennedy, Beatrice; Dirkes Rolston, Forsyth, Mont., and Bob Smith, Grand Island. . . .

Jerry Minnick, 6-foot 4-inch, 220-pound senior tackle from Cambridge, is the only Cornhusker to rate an All-America berth in last year's pickings. . . . Minnick was named to the International News Service first defensive team. . . . A zealous worker, Minnick is co-captain with End Bill Schabacker of Minden who was a top defensive wingman.

Coach Glassford was an All-America guard at the University of Pittsburgh in 1936. . . . His four-year record at Nebraska is 17 won, 19 lost and 2 tied. . . . Line Coach Walter (Mike) Milligan is another Pitt alumnus. . . . Backfield Coach Bob Davis is a Kentucky grad. . . . In 1936 he was the leading Southeastern Conference scorer, and was listed on several All-America squads. . . .

Nebraska's home game uniforms consist of silver pants with red stripes, red jerseys with white sleeve stripes, and red helmets with a white center stripe. . . . Last year's Huskers played before 342,803 spectators in 10 games, second highest on record for a Nebraska season. . . . 1952 brought a record home attendance—183,685 for five games. . . .

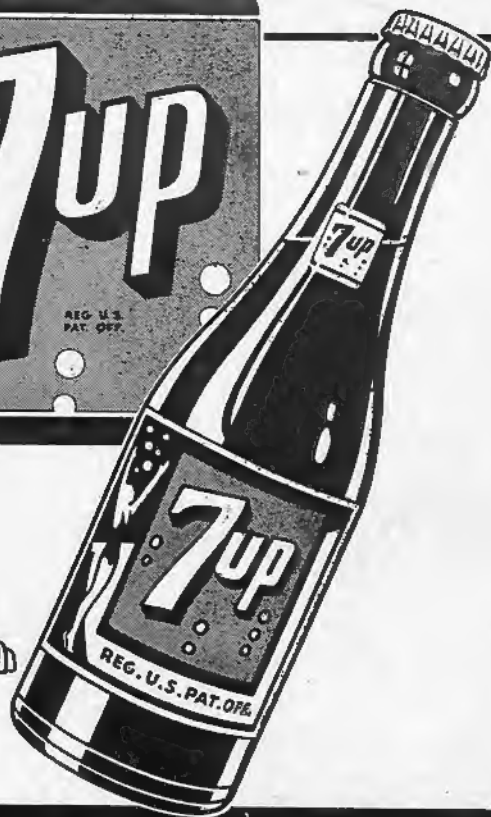

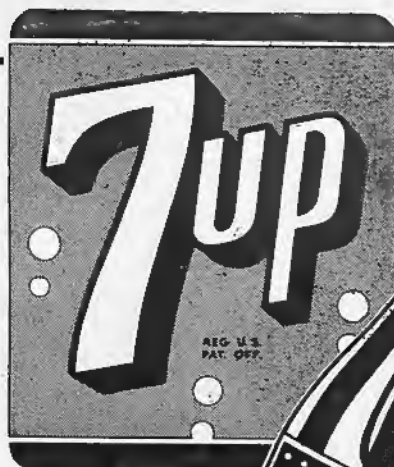

The Cornhusker institution was established in 1869. . . . Two years later the enrollment was 130. . . . This year the figure approximates 6,000. . . . The 1954 and 1955 Scarlet football schedules include games with Hawaii. . . .

A member of the Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic Association (Big Seven Conference), Nebraska has been football champion nine times in 25 years. . . . The Cornhuskers have played in only one bowl game—the Rose Bowl in January of 1941. . . . They lost to Stanford 13-21. . . . End Coach Ray Prochaska was a member of that Nebraska team. . . .

Remaining games on the Huskers' 1953 slate are those with Illinois, Kansas State, Pittsburgh, Miami (Fla.), Missouri, Kansas, Iowa State, Colorado and Oklahoma. . . . Sixteen Huskers have been named to All-America teams in past years according to the N.C.A.A. Official Football Guide. . . . They are Vic Halligan 1914; Guy Chamberlin 1915; Ed Weir 1924 and 1925; Dan McMullen 1928; Ray Richards 1929; Hugh Rhea 1930; Lawrence Ely 1932; George Sauer 1933; Sam Francis 1936; Charles Brock and Fred Shirey 1937; Warren Alfson and Forrest Behm 1949; Bob Reynolds 1950; and Minnick. . . .

Cadet Joseph D. Davenport, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Davenport of Callaway, is a member of the group.

The team is comprised of 54 cadets who currently are undergoing pre-flight instruction to become Naval aviators. They voluntarily give up much of their spare time during the rigorous academic schedule to become members of the team.

Appearances at this and 11 other leading college football classics this fall are made as a means of interesting high-calibre young college men in Naval aviation, and as a good-will gesture on the part of the Naval Air Training Command, the Navy's largest shore-based command, headed by Vice Admiral John Dale Price, USN, with headquarters at Pensacola.

The U. S. Naval Air Station at Lincoln, commanded by Capt. H. J. Murray, is host to the drill team during its stay here.

The All University Fund

is comparable to a campus Community Chest. AUF is the only organization authorized to solicit for funds at NU. The money from this year's drive, to be held from October 5th to October 19th, will be given to four worthy causes: 1. Cancer research at the University, 2. World University Service, 3. American Heart Association, 4. Community Chest of Lincoln. Won't you join the many others in contributing this year? Send your contributions to:
